Fun Facts:
- The berries on the Serviceberry are tasty! They become ripe in the late summer.
- Birds, bears, squirrels, chipmunks, and some other animals love to eat these berries.
- Animals like these berries so much that they eat them all before people can get to them to make them into jams or pies!
- Moose and Deer like to eat the branches of the Serviceberry.
- Serviceberry trees are part of the rose family. They have beautiful flowers that blossom in the spring, but they don’t last long.

Activity:
- With the child, sit down at a table outside of Café Cheray.
- Read the child Shel Silverstein’s The Giving Tree.
- After reading the book, ask the child to draw a picture of him or herself with one of the Serviceberry trees.
- Discuss with the child the importance of trees.
  Possible Questions-
  *What do trees give to people?
  *What do trees give to animals?
  *Is it okay to cut down trees like the boy did in the book?
  *What makes the Serviceberry tree special? (Use fun facts)
  *What can it give to people and animals?

Materials:
- The Giving Tree by, Shel Silverstein
- Unlined paper
- Crayons, markers, or colored pencils